The Society was founded with the aim to contribute for the growth and development of fisheries in the Northeast by providing a common platform facilitating better person to person interaction and cooperation among the fisheries professionals, administrators, policy makers, fishers and students in the Northeast. The prime objective of NESFA are

The Society has been organizing different training programmes for the local farmers, Fish Farmers' Meet and publishing extension materials for the farmers from time to time.

Of late, a decision has been taken to publish a quarterly journal by the Society which has been christened as 'Indian Journal of Fisheries and Aquaculture (IJFA)'. The journal will be peer reviewed by selected reviewers in the field and simultaneously would be indexed in national and international abstracts. IJFA will also have an ISSN with NAAS affiliation.
